Gatekeepers training: fostering inclusion

In our never-ending journey to foster a diverse and inclusive workplace, in 2022 we initiated a comprehensive training program for our Talent acquisition and HR teams. Designed to address biases and promote Diversity, Inclusion and sense of belonging, this training was tailored for our professional teams.

This multifaceted program consists of two distinct meetings, each strategically crafted to enhance a comprehensive understanding and meaningful progress. The first session serves as an inspirational platform, combining an immersive tour, open conversations, and interactive discussions. We encourage candid inquiries to create a safe space for learning and growth, abiding by the principle of "It's embarrassing to not ask." The second session comprises a professional workshop, collaborating with partners from various organizations. This hands-on session equips our team with practical tools to enhance our interview processes, amplifying inclusivity. Our aim is to refine our internal procedures to accommodate a broader audience, fostering an inclusive workplace environment.

We firmly believe that fostering inclusivity nurtures the best company culture, one where growth, creativity, and success are boundless. Through education and training, and interpersonal meetups, we drive meaningful change, building a workplace where diversity thrives and every individual can flourish.

Global volunteering week

For the first time, AppsFlyer came together as a community and created a chain of giving which included: volunteering, an opportunity to donate, and ultimately creating positive change. In memory of Dylan Flanagan, a beloved cherished member of our San Francisco team who was a dedicated social activist. Our inaugural Global Volunteering Week united 13 AppsFlyer offices across 9 countries. Commenced in United States and traversed continents. This unprecedented global collaboration highlighted our collective dedication to positive change and our ability to make a meaningful impact across borders on a global scale.

Spring of giving: uniting communities

The convergence of Pesach, Ramadan, and Easter in Israel provided a unique opportunity for us to unite communities during Spring 2022. Through 14 diverse volunteering initiatives, over 262 volunteers joined hands to touch lives across diverse backgrounds and religions. This initiative reflects our commitment to inclusivity and the far-reaching impact of creating positive change.

Matching campaigns: amplifying impact

Our matching campaigns amplify the generosity of our employees, enabling us to create a larger impact. Through these campaigns, we support families in need during holidays and extend assistance to global communities facing challenges. These campaigns embody our commitment to making a meaningful difference and supporting causes that resonate with our values.

Empowering change through people initiative is a testament to the transformative power of individuals and their ability to drive positive change. Through volunteering, collaboration, and dedication, we continue to foster a culture of giving, empowering our people to be agents of change in the world.
Embracing the last survivors

In 2022, we intensified our efforts through over 18 initiatives, uniting more than 300 Holocaust survivors with our people.

As long as we are privileged to have them among us, we are steadfast in our commitment to embrace and honor the extraordinary Holocaust heroes – the last living witnesses to the vast genocide that shook the world. With each passing day, we bid farewell to survivors, and with the relentless march of time, their invaluable stories risk fading into silence. This is our urgent call to stand by them, to listen, to learn, and to help their legacy live on.

Over the years, an unbreakable bond has blossomed with these remarkable survivors, transcending mere acquaintance to heartfelt friendship.

Our dedication stems from a profound desire to alleviate their solitude, to treasure their memories, and to celebrate the precious moments we are privileged to share. Our partnership with a day centers and organizations for Holocaust survivors amplifies our devotion to this cause. Across the year, we extend our welcoming arms, inviting them into our offices for festive gatherings, joyful celebrations, and spirited dancing. We organize enriching excursions and meaningful visits to their centers, an embodiment of our commitment to make them feel cherished and valued.

Driven by compassion and initiative, our volunteers spent quality time, sipped coffee, and engaged in simple yet profound gestures that dispelled the weight of loneliness and isolation. Communal holiday celebrations and the formation of a cooking group fostered an environment of warmth and togetherness, enriching the lives of both the survivors and our team.
Equal education and future employability

Education and employability drive transformative change across industries and societies. At AppsFlyer, we champion equal education and opportunities, firmly believing in their potential for lasting, positive impact. Bridging the digital gaps
Empowering education through technology

At AppsFlyer, a pioneering SaaS company, we are committed to bridging digital disparities through impactful actions and resource optimization.

Our contributions include 411 computers and screens, alongside a broad array of technical equipment. These donations empower 7 educational initiatives spanning 4 countries.

Our profound recognition of digital inclusions importance and equal access to education has become even more pronounced during times of crisis, notably the COVID-19 pandemic. This global disruption has magnified existing inequalities, intensifying technological disparities and constraining education access, particularly for marginalized children and young individuals. This underscores the pressing need for internet connectivity and digital tools.

Since the pandemic’s onset, our resolve to address these disparities has remained steadfast. We’ve championed initiatives encompassing computer donations, mentoring, partnerships, and support for educational programs worldwide.

Fostering digital knowledge in the UK:
Collaborating closely with our London team, we established a digital library at Thornhill Elementary School. This initiative has made significant strides in enhancing reading and writing skills for underprivileged children without internet access and computers. Our long-term investment approach aimed to combat social exclusion during quarantine by augmenting digital and educational resources. Student test results from the school underscore impressive progress in literacy among computer recipients, preserving their academic trajectory. Over the past three years, our London team has actively engaged in various school initiatives as volunteers.

Ukraine’s empowerment endeavor:
In Kyiv, we recognized the pivotal role of reducing digital disparities and enhancing technology access for at-risk youth. Partnering with a remote orphanage, we laid the foundation for STEM education and internet connectivity. A state-of-the-art computer lab was established, offering these youth invaluable resources to cultivate digital skills and boost future employability. Our Kyiv team volunteered ardently to renovate and set up the new lab, contributing to the transformation of these young lives.

Advancing digital learning in Israel:
Collaborating closely with our educational partners, we bolster their initiatives through device donations. Within our own in-house AppSkilling lessons, each student benefits from exclusive access to their personal device throughout the session, thereby enriching their learning experience.

These initiatives, alongside others within our global communities, resonate with our mission to foster equitable educational opportunities and enhance children’s future employability. Our goal is to bridge the digital divide, extend education access, and equip young individuals with the essential skills needed for a promising and empowered future.
Unlocking futures with AppSkilling

In November 2021, we pioneered our first internal program, AppSkilling, designed to bridge educational and digital divides. The Learning club for youth initiative empowers at-risk adolescents, fostering growth in academic pursuits while broadening their horizons. Every week, for two hours, these determined teens collaborate with our dedicated volunteers, receiving personalized 1:1 homework assistance and engaging enrichment.

Youth at risk often hail from underprivileged backgrounds, missing out on exposure to STEM studies and the high-tech sector. They often lack the personalized attention necessary to uplift their grades and flourish academically, leaving them trapped in a cycle.

Our conviction is simple: by introducing these teens to the high-tech realm, offering them diverse options, amplifying opportunities, and bolstering their school performance, we equip them with the tools needed to dream ambitiously and achieve success. Held every Monday afternoon at our Herzliya office, the weekly program extends a helping hand. Teens partake in homework support, sharpen their English/Math skills, or engage in brief, enlightening lectures.

The value is two-fold: Our volunteers experience the profound impact they can have by sharing their expertise and care, while the teens reap direct benefits from those who understand them best—our volunteers—offering care, attention, and compassion. The AppSkilling Learning Club bridges gaps, creating a bond between our volunteers and at-risk youth. It expands horizons, nurtures academic growth, and shatters glass ceilings—a testament to the program’s profound and lasting influence.

Driven by dedication, our 46 volunteers continued their impactful contributions in 2022, collectively investing 316 hours in our AppSkilling program. Notably, R&D and Product Experts played a significant role, representing 49.05% of the total volunteering effort.
Gender equality

Girls and students were directly impacted in 2022, through our mentorship and leadership programs, equipping them with the knowledge, skills, and confidence needed to shape their futures and drive meaningful change.

168
Volunteers contributed 1,402 hours to empower girls and women.

58%
Of the total volunteering effort, were made by women of AppsFlyer, underlining their dedicated commitment to our impactful initiatives.

As a company deeply committed to creating a sustainable world, we are resolute in our mission to advance gender equality by empowering girls and women. This commitment is integral to our mission in action. Gender equality, a challenge steeped in history, calls for a multifaceted approach. We invest extensively in programs and initiatives that facilitate access and equal opportunity to STEM education, mentoring, and tutoring for girls and young women. Our steadfast commitment remains firm in our endeavor to shape a world where each and every girl and woman is granted an equal opportunity to thrive and succeed. In collaboration with local and global gender-focused organizations, we fervently champion a diverse and inclusive environment.

Empowering voices - AppsFlyer women in action:
Our commitment to gender equality is exemplified by the active participation of women in our volunteering efforts. At the core of our approach is the recognition that role models play a pivotal role in inspiring young girls to aspire and believe in themselves. We foster an environment that encourages our women to share their experiences and mentor aspiring young girls. Our dedication extends to long-term programs across our global communities, aimed at bridging the gender gap and promoting equality. Through these initiatives, we contribute to a more equitable world while also driving innovation and progress.

An imperative: Advancing gender equality stands not only as a moral imperative but also as an essential driver of business growth. Diversity ignites innovation, fuels creativity, and propels growth.

Reshaping the tech industry: By investing today in girls and young adults, we pave the way for a more balanced and equitable industry and ecosystem in the future. Through mentoring, knowledge-sharing, and comprehensive training, we diligently propel women into tech roles, thereby unlocking new avenues of opportunity and cultivating a landscape of innovation and progress.
Nurturing future women leaders: Shavot = Equal

Through our Shavot initiative, in 2022 we fostered transformative change for 100 teen girls across seven groups in Israel’s social periphery city. Guided by the commitment of AppsFlyer women mentors, this program is a testament to the potent impact of mentorship in driving positive shifts.

Empowered 7 school groups, guided by the dedication of 65 women volunteers and 28 mentors, resulting in a remarkable total of 284 volunteering hours.

These girls, often facing unique challenges, are empowered to overcome obstacles that can impact their future journeys. By nurturing their self-confidence, and providing tools for success, we’re sowing the seeds for future progress in fields like gender equality, wage parity, leadership roles, and increasing women’s safety online.

The strength of this initiative lies in cross-sector collaboration. Partnering with the local municipality and purpose-oriented organizations amplifies our efforts, demonstrating that shared dedication results in meaningful and sustainable change.

Israel Girl’s Teen Week: inspiring across boundaries

A particularly impactful chapter of the project unfolded during Israel Girl’s Teen Week. Spearheaded by Shavot and extending throughout social media and the nation, this week commenced in the esteemed halls of the Israeli President’s residence, graced by the presence of the First Lady. Lisa Zaythick, our Chief People and Operation Officer at AppsFlyer, shared her inspirational story as a young immigrant who charted her course to success.

Dozens of remarkable Appsflyer women subsequently took to classrooms across the country. Their stories transcended schools, backgrounds, and geographic boundaries, igniting inspiration and motivation in the hearts of young girls everywhere. This empowering week resonated deeply, showcasing the impactful outcomes of unity and shared experiences.
shecodes summer training

In a vibrant two-day program, we welcomed 80 teenage girls, of diverse backgrounds. Guided by 17 mentors and tutors, all accomplished women hailing from AppsFlyer’s esteemed R&D and Product teams, this initiative was strategically designed to expand horizons and bridge the gender gap in the world of technology.

The gender gap transcends mere statistics; it undercuts the fabric of diversity, inclusivity, and even innovation and economic prosperity. Encouraging and empowering more young girls and women to embrace tech careers is not just a mission, but a necessity to mend this gap, unlock latent potential, and nurture a fairer future. The key lies in investing in young girls, alleviating their tech-related apprehensions, and kindling their passion for the field.

We crafted a concise coding curriculum, providing these girls with access to coding tools and a taste of success in the field. By channeling the expertise of our dedicated volunteers, we made an indelible mark, steering these girls through their coding journey, while igniting a ripple effect that encourages more girls to embark on the path of computer science education.

At its core, this endeavor encourages girls to embrace coding from an early age, infusing the tech industry with much-needed diversity and narrowing the gender gap. Empowered with coding prowess, these young girls emerge as architects of tomorrow’s innovations, inspiring others to ardently chase their aspirations and make an impact without hesitation.

Fala Mulher

Sao Paulo office: fostering resilience and skill development: empowering women post-crisis

In the face of the challenging COVID-19 pandemic, a time when Brazil saw a staggering 40% surge in domestic violence rates, our commitment to address this urgent issue grew stronger. Fala Muller, a non-profit organization dedicated to combating domestic violence and advancing gender equity, became our ally in this critical endeavor. What initially began as a response to the pandemic has since blossomed into a dynamic mentorship program.

Our team in Sao Paulo recognized the imperative of rising against the tide of violence. Fala Muller’s mission aligned perfectly with our goal of creating a secure space and fostering women’s progress. At the core of their mission lay the facilitation of access to women’s rights information, the promotion of financial independence, and the fight against domestic violence.

To directly address the pressing need for support, AppsFlyer LATAM women initiated an exclusive mentorship program. This program was thoughtfully tailored for women who had endured domestic violence and found themselves seeking refuge in shelters. Our purpose was clear, to empower these women with knowledge, new skills, and support. Through this initiative, our aim was to provide them with the tools needed to rebuild their confidence and successfully reintegrate them into the job market after overcoming periods of trauma.

Out of the participants, an impressive 50% achieved a remarkable turnaround, securing jobs within weeks of completing the mentorship program. An even more remarkable outcome was the realization of a dream: 1 participant bravely launched her own business. These tangible successes of employment and entrepreneurship achievements underscore the program’s transformative influence, echoing the power of women’s mentorship in rebuilding lives beyond times of crisis.
Empowering education for equality: creating the equality time website

Equality Time, an initiative led by educator and social entrepreneur Tal Brier Ben Mocha, embodies a profound commitment to advancing a culture of equality. This innovative initiative is dedicated to curating an array of stories, plays, games, and books that cultivate gender consciousness in parenting decisions and education framework curricula.

Its mission? To spotlight heroes of all backgrounds, shapes, sizes, and genders.

Children are enthralled by narratives and literature. Yet, the stories we choose for them bear considerable weight, carrying implicit messages that shape their identities as future men and women. Equality Time seeks to transform this narrative landscape. The initiative’s focal point is its website, a resource-rich platform designed to empower parents and educators. Here, they can effortlessly discover a curated selection of books, games, and shows that champion equality. This extensive list offers a diverse array of educational solutions, inviting the community to actively share opinions and feedback.

At the heart of this transformative project, AppsFlyer volunteers have played an integral role. Our dedicated team took charge of the website’s development, taking on responsibilities that encompassed characterizing the website, shaping user experience and user interface, and managing its creation. Collaborating closely with Equality Time’s experts, our team, consisting of a senior producer-director, project manager, and designer, worked tirelessly to empower our efforts towards the empowerment of girls and women, all while contributing to the fostering of a gender-conscious educational and cultural landscape.

Child safety online

Protecting the safety and wellbeing of children online is a critical priority for us. With one-third of internet users being children, we hold a great responsibility to protect our most vulnerable resources. The digital age has seamlessly woven itself into the fabric of modern existence, profoundly impacting youth. Alongside its benefits, it has also become a source of danger, with cyberbullying and online harassment affecting children worldwide. One in three young people in over 30 countries has reported being a victim of online bullying (UNICEF).

We established Max Fund in 2021 with a clear mission to save a child’s life and create a world where children can live and thrive in the digital era while remaining safe from harm. We believe that by raising awareness, providing education and the tools and resources to promote online safety, and by leveraging technology, we can make a real difference in the lives of children.

In 2022, we launched online safety workshops for AppsFlyer parents, developed programs centered on child online safety, and delivered lectures to schools and partners.

Our efforts are focused on three main pillars:

Raising awareness: Creating secure digital spaces for children is our mission, achieved by elevating awareness about online risks. Through impactful educational initiatives and fostering open conversations among children, parents, and educators, we cultivate knowledge and vigilance.

Education: Collaborating with partners, we craft internet safety programs. Our goal is to equip children, youth, and parents with the knowledge and skills to navigate the digital realm responsibly.

Technology: We envision technology as a powerful tool in the fight for online safety. By encouraging children and youth to embrace innovative ideas, we foster the development of effective tools and strategies that safeguard their digital presence.

As a pioneering force in the SaaS industry, we recognize our role in setting industry-wide benchmarks for online safety. We aspire to drive dialogue, amplify voices, and initiate meaningful change, one family, one child at a time. Through privacy innovations, education, and social responsibility, we are dedicated to creating a safer internet for all.

The Max Fund stands as a tribute to Max Edelstein, a beloved 12-year-old who tragically lost his life and we honor his memory by working tirelessly to make a difference and progress children’s safety online.
In collaboration with QueenB, our groundbreaking initiative at AppsFlyer group at Technion University embraces two fundamental pillars: coding and online safety for girls. At its core, this program ignites a passion for coding among young girls, opening doors to computer science and pathways into the tech industry. Simultaneously, we weave a crucial theme – online safety – recognizing technology’s indispensable role in today’s world.

In an era where technology shapes connections, we equip girls with skills to navigate the digital landscape safety. The internet, while invaluable, presents risks. Our partnership with QueenB cultivates a space for future leaders to learn to code and champion their online security.

Our impact reverberates through the exchange of expertise between our volunteers and the young girls, bridging worlds and learning about them to support the need. Together, we collaboratively teach diverse content from coding, and self-confidence to marketing and develop solutions to make the online realm a safer space for girls and women, capitalizing on the knowledge shared by our dedicated volunteers.

Our goal is twofold: inspire girls to embrace computer science while empowering them to channel skills into coding for a safer online environment. Through education, empowerment, and action, we aim to foster a generation of proactive young women driving change in coding and internet safety.
Unistream - a collaborative journey for equal opportunities

Our partnership with Unistream is a multi-sector collaboration, uniting a tech company, an educational nonprofit, and a challenged six-year school. Together, we’ve addressed the unique challenges faced by a diverse population of Arab and Jewish students, coming from low socioeconomic backgrounds. This collaboration represents a powerful intervention and a mutual learning process that aims to reshape the educational landscape.

Education stands as a potent force for progress, yet in underserved areas, access to STEM and technology studies is limited, exacerbating educational inequalities. Unistream intervenes with a dedicated platform that not only imparts STEM knowledge but also nurtures entrepreneurial thinking among these young minds.

Our volunteers, hailing from diverse professional backgrounds, bring a wealth of expertise that transcends the traditional classroom experience. This infusion of fresh perspectives fosters innovation and unlocks the potential of these teens, propelling them into new realms of exploration.

The impact of our joint efforts reverberates in two pivotal ways. Primarily, our collaboration bridges the educational divide and expands horizons, cultivating a more equitable terrain for young learners. Moreover, this engagement empowers these young minds to play a role in creating safer online spaces for their peers. By combining the power of entrepreneurial thinking with the awareness of online safety, we equip them to thrive in both the digital and real-world spheres.

As we look back on the year 2022, we would like to spotlight two remarkable initiatives that encapsulate the profound blend of technology, innovation, and human compassion. Through the “Auschwitz-Birkenau virtual tour” and the “Makers for Heroes” program, we are presented with striking examples of how technology can catalyze profound change. These projects, among others, stand as testaments to our commitment to creating a sustainable and brighter future through innovation, impacting not only the present but potentially millions of lives worldwide in the future.
In front of your eyes – Auschwitz Birkenau live virtual tour

“There is only one thing worse than Auschwitz itself... and that is if the world forgets there was such a place”

Henry Appel, Auschwitz survivor.

When the shadow of COVID-19 fell upon the world, the Auschwitz-Birkenau State Museum faced an unprecedented challenge – closing its doors for the first time in 75 years. Witnessing this moment, we refused to remain passive bystanders and recognized our responsibility to act.

Understanding the profound significance of the Auschwitz-Birkenau State Museum as a testament to history’s horrors and the voices of Holocaust victims and survivors, we forged an alliance with the Auschwitz-Birkenau Foundation and the Auschwitz-Birkenau State Museum. Our shared mission: to create an innovative solution that would preserve accessibility to the memorial, transcending any physical or geographical boundaries, protecting that the gates of remembrance would forever remain open.

To bring this vision to life, we partnered with Disk-in, a multidisciplinary creative agency that mirrored our innovative spirit, dedication, and professionalism. Together, over the span of two years, we manifested an immersive live virtual tour platform, revolutionizing how people worldwide could engage with the memorial.

This groundbreaking partnership yielded a virtual tour platform that is more than technology – it’s a transformative experience. People worldwide can explore the memorial in real-time, guided by on the ground professional guides. The tour educates individuals from different backgrounds, languages and ages. From adults, to students in class, or families of victims, anywhere in the world, From Australia to the United States. Flexibility is key; visitors customize their experience, preserving the essence of an in-person visit. This achievement extends beyond technology; it’s a vital tool for Holocaust education, safeguarding its memory and reaching millions who couldn’t have visited Auschwitz otherwise.

As the number of living Holocaust survivors diminishes, we’re honored to lead this initiative. By leveraging technology, we make certain Holocaust education resonates globally and with generations to come.

This powerful partnership between technology and history underscores collaboration’s strength. Melding expertise and purpose, we’ve created something impactful, meaningful, and transformative. Our endeavor intertwines history, technology, and compassion, etching the lessons of the past into eternity – a testament never to be forgotten.

We are forever grateful for the privilege to initiate and deliver this sacred project and for our part in preserving the survivors’ voices and Holocaust remembrance and education. Restart is a non-profit organization helping wounded soldiers from the Israel Defense Forces (IDF) to restart their life journey after physical and/or emotional trauma resulting from their mandatory service or reserve duty. Through “Makers for Heroes” program, skilled volunteers collaborate to engineer innovative technological solutions that address the unique challenges faced by IDF wounded soldiers. This initiative transcends physical disabilities, cultivating emotional wellbeing and forging bonds of unity among all participants.

We undertook a significant challenge, focusing on a former lieutenant in the IDF who suffered a severe head injury resulting in the loss of his short-term memory. This led to frequent disorientation and vulnerability when he was alone. Rising to the challenge, our team collaborated to design a dedicated Geofence app for a special watch and a family calendar. This ingenious creation not only served as a reminder of his location but also established a direct lifeline for his family, offering them real-time reassurance during times of uncertainty.

Driven by a dedicated R&D and product team, we leveraged our technical expertise to craft an application that goes beyond an individual’s needs. Our solution, while assisting this soldier and his family, has the potential to transform the lives of patients grappling with head injuries, dementia, and other disabilities.

This venture’s impact ripples far beyond the surface. Through the Makers for Heroes program, our volunteers discover purpose in their skills, gaining enriching experience and a profound sense of fulfillment. This initiative stands as a catalyst for personal and professional growth, nurturing a culture of altruism and generosity within our organization.

Makers for Heroes stands as a testament to the symbiotic relationship between technology and compassion. This endeavor doesn’t just provide a solution; it encapsulates our commitment to instigate lasting change, embodying the core values of empathy and social responsibility that define our organization’s essence.
The year 2022 marked a chapter of swift action and compassion in response to the war in Ukraine. As the conflict unfolded, from the first day of the war, we stepped forward to offer aid and solace to those in the midst of turmoil. With our hearts dedicated to the cause, we launched a multifaceted emergency relief initiative to address the urgent needs of the affected communities.

First priority: AppsFlyer Kyiv team:
In the face of uncertainty, we established an emergency center at our headquarters, a safe haven for our Ukrainian team and their families. We opened a hotline and provided our people with the services they needed, putting their safety and wellbeing our first priority.

Emergency and relief aid:
• Healthcare access – As the first echoes of the crisis reverberated, our priority was clear: allow immediate access to medical care for those impacted. To this end, we partnered with pioneering organizations operating on the frontline. Our contribution was directed towards equipping a field hospital at the border of Ukraine and Moldova. Vital medical supplies and defibrillators filled our medical bags, giving critical ambulatory care for refugees seeking safety at the border.
• Safeguarding vulnerable lives – War ravages without discrimination, but its impact often falls heaviest on women and girls. Our partnership with HIAS, a stalwart in conflict zones, was forged to provide refuge and support to displaced women, girls, and LGBTQI+ individuals. With over 2 million refugees displaced, the need was pressing. Collaborating across borders, we extended our hand to those in Ukraine, Moldova, Romania, and Poland. The mission was to provide protection, comfort, and a semblance of stability in times of upheaval.

Acts of kindness, acts of unity:
From our Kyiv team’s boots-on-the-ground efforts, delivering food and urgent aid to the vulnerable, to a special gathering for Ukrainian refugees in Israel, we harnessed the collective strength of our global community to make a difference. We embraced responsibility not only as a company but as individuals eager to stand with those who face adversity. As the calendar turned, our commitment remained steadfast.

Looking ahead – rebuilding and renewing:
Beyond the immediate response, our resolve persevered. Throughout 2022 and into 2023, our efforts continued to resonate in the rebuilding of shattered communities. In Irpin, the transformation of a school building brought a renewed promise of education. With each endeavor, we aimed to cultivate hope, mend what was broken, uplift spirits, and help in shaping a brighter future for people affected by the turbulence of war.

1. Privacy cloud

AppsFlyer Privacy Cloud is an open and trusted environment for ecosystem collaboration and innovation that enhances customer experience while preserving privacy. The AppsFlyer Privacy Cloud is powered by an ever-evolving range of innovative privacy-preserving technologies.

2. Data clean room

A key feature of the Privacy Cloud is the Data Clean Room (DCR). The DCR enables customers to analyze their first-party data in a safe environment and receive aggregated reports, without disclosure of user-level data.

In addition, AppsFlyer uses two main privacy-preserving technologies in the implementation of different services provided as part of the Data Clean Room’s offerings. One of them is "Differential Privacy": a method of adding calculated “noise” to customer data such that it cannot be reverse-engineered. Another solution offered as part of the Privacy Cloud, is “Aggregated Conversion Modeling”, which allows customers to measure the aggregated impact of marketing campaigns when a subset of conversions can’t be attributed on a user level.

For more information about the Privacy CloudCR, see here.

3. Other technologies across our services

Privacy-preserving solutions (privacy by default) include:
- Aggregated Advanced Privacy (AAP)
- SK360 (SKAN)
- Probabilistic Modeling
- Incrementality measurement

Privacy-preserving controls (privacy by design) include:
- Opt-in/Out for any data processing - this enables customers to align with any consent mechanisms implemented within their app to provide GDPR, CCPA or other regulatory compliance.
- Opt-out from Device ID utilization (iOS - IDFA, iOS - IDEV, and Android). For iOS customers may also use the Strict Mode SDK. This enables alignment with any platform policies and regulatory requirements for child-directed or mixed-audience applications.
- Opt-out controls for customer data sharing with partners (see also AAP for iOS for aggregated data sharing). This enables customers to comply with platform policies and regulatory requirements including requirements related to child or mixed audience applications (e.g COPPA).
- Opt-in/out controls on types of data shared for in-app events - this enables customers to control with which partners (if any at all) customers share events they choose to measure.
- IP address masking - This will mask IP addresses from any reporting and from any data customers choose to share with their partners.
- Post-install deidentification - this enables customers to measure post-install events without connection to the device identifier and to the initial attribution. Other identifiers such as IP and AppsFlyer ID are hashed.
